WHAT IS THE REASON.—It is a melancholy fact that not one lady in a hundred, in these United States, has fine or luxuriant hair. Everybody is complaining of the loss of "woman's chief glory," and wondering why on earth pomatums and hairwashes, oils and restoratives, fail to bring it back "as per advertisement." We suspect there would be a | tlemen. We ask dealers generally to examine our general exclamation of incredulity among stock. the gentlemen did they but know what an immense proportion of the tastefully arranged tresses they behold on fair heads grew on somebody else's pate. Almost every one wears | ENS for Shirtinga "roll" or "braid," which comes from the hairdresser's, and costs from five to twenty dollars. It is disposed with consummate skill-you cannot distinguish the sly hair-pins that fasten on the false decoration, yet there it is, a tacit confession that nature gives way

"My hair will keep coming out, although I take the greatest pains with it," sighs the fashionable belle; "I don't see what the trouble is!"

There are several "troubles," first and foremost among which is the expensive "roll" itself. Any hair-dresser will tell you that the weight and pressure of this heavy mass of false hair, with the heat it induces around the head is highly prejudicial to the growth and welfare of the real hair. If you must wear a roll, let it be as seldom as possible. Whenever you can dispense with it, do so. Let its place be supplied as often as practicable with a light head-dress, secured with as few hair-pins as will support it. These last are fearfully destructive to the hair, cutting and wearing it to an incredible degree. Gutta percha hair-pins are the best, and even these should be limited in number. All sorts of pomatums, oils and preparations had better be let alone. There is no use in soaking the skin of the head in grease, as is often done. If the hair is harsh and dry, custor-oil, perfumed, is the best application, but the scalp itself should not be saturated. Washing the head thoroughly in fair water once a week will be found very beneficial.

Bodily health is almost essential to the natural growth of the hair. Nothing indicates the progress of sickness so plainly as the dry, dead look of the hair; and if our American ladies want lovely, luxuriant tresses, they they must avoid heated rooms, late hours, and fashionable dissipation. There is no help for it-nature will avenge any infringement on her laws, and the sooner we become thoroughly convinced of this fact, the better for us.

There is no ornament half so becoming to a female head as thick, beautiful hair. It needs no decoration beyond a natural flower or two. Nets, diamond sprays, tiaras of pearl, are useless-it is like "painting the lily" to wear them. Remember this, girls, and take every precaution to preserve this exquisite ornament of Nature's manufacture. | 42 spring Steel Skirts, with Bustle at $1 Once gone, it is hard to coax back again.

Douglas Louisvillian, noted for his betting propensities, wagered a thousand dollars with a North Carolinian that Bell would receive the electoral vote of Virginia. The gentlemen drew their checks for the amount and deposited them in the hands of a third party, a resident of Philadelphia.

A week after the election, it was deemed a sure thing that Breckinridge had carried the State. The Louisvillian thereupon, in this belief, wrote to the North Carolinian that it would greatly inconvenience him to pay the money forthwith, and asked him to hold up the check for a short time. This reached the North Carolinian when Virginia was reported "dead sure" for Bell. He thereupon writes to the stake holder to return him his check, as he wasn't willing to risk his money against the check of a man who couldn't "come to time." The stakeholder advises the Kentuckian of the demand; the latter, however, believing from the "latest news that he had won, won't concur, but writes the bet must stand, and the North Carolinian is informed of his conclusion." This letter reaches him when it is announced that six Breckinridge electors were chosen. North Carolina believes he has the "dead wood" on the Kentuckian, and promptly sends a messenger to the stakeholder for the checks. He arrives, and acquaints the man who holds the checks of his business. But, presto change!-the latter points out the latest telegraphic news in the morning papers, stating that the Breckinridge electors refuse to serve, and that Bell "receives the electoral vote of Virginia!"-Isn't that diamond cut diamond?-Louisville

EXTRACTING TEETH WITH GUNFOWDER .-Amongst the vagaries of the eccentric physician (Monsey) was the way in which he extracted his own teeth. Round the tooth sentenced to be drawn he fastened securely a strong piece of catgut, to the opposite end of which he affixed a bullet. With this bullet and a full measure of powder, a pistol was charged. On the trigger being pulled the operation was performed effectually and speedily. The doctor could rarely prevail on his friends to permit him to remove their teeth by this original process. Once a gentleman who had agreed to try the novelty, and had even allowed the apparatus to be adjusted, at the last moment exclaimed, "Stop, stop, I've changed my mind." "But I haven't, and you're a fool and a coward for your pains," answered the doctor, pulling the trigger. In another instant the tooth was extracted, much to the timid patient's The Richard, the English Sack, the French Sack, delight and astonishment.

N. B. Read the following from the Evening Star of December 3, 1859: "A REMARKABLY FINE ALE .- Mr. Davison's successor in the Washington Brewery, corner of K and 27th streets, Mr. Colineau, is now manufacturing XX ale and porter and brown stout, all of which reflect infinite credit on his establishment. His ale compares favorably, indeed, with the best

Philadelphia and Albany ales, being, according to our taste, much more like the best English and Scotch ales than those imported from either of those cities. If he continues to produce so superior an article, he will shortly make a reputation for his brewery surpassing that of any Northern establishment.

PALE, AMBER, AND CREAM ALES to which he respectfully invites the attention of his friends, and the public. Having an experience of over 20 years in the business, and possessing extensive manufacturing facilities, he flatters' himself that his ALES will compare favorably with any manufactured, either in or out of the State of Virginia. If necessary, he could fill columns with the many flattering testimonials he has received with regard to the superiority of his ALES, from the press and the public; but he prefers that his ALE shall speak for itself. By a strict personal attention to business, and a determination to manufacture nothing but a superior quality of PURE ALE, he hopes to merit a share of public patronage.
